"Newton's law, 'For every action there is a ... reaction', applies not only to science but also to people. Life is composed of actions and reactions. There are the actor's actions and the audience's reactions of applause and laughter; the action of a touchdown and the reaction of cheers from the stands; the action of the flags being raised and the reaction of patriotism; and many others. The story of McDougoh #35 Senior High, 1968, can be read not only in the actions or events of the year but also can be read in the faces of the students and faculty."

REACTION

As written by Miss Myrtle Watts for the initial issue of the yearbook in 1929

As the centuries, one after another, glide by, revelations more and more marvelous are brought to the ken of men. Perhaps the most extraordinary discovery of modern times is that of the most resourceful of all winged creatures, resembles in some respects the great American bald eagle. The Roneagle, however, is far larger in size; and it possesses a tremendous advantage over the other bird in that, through Mother Nature's inventiveness, its body - head, eyes, beak, breast, wings, talons, bones, muscles, nerves, and organs - is fashioned (marvel of marvels) in Solid Iron! Because of this singular trait - which because of the great weight of even the iron feathers of its mighty pinions, would reasonably seem impossible - the creature has become known as the Roneagle - the iron eagle.

In only one spot in the world, the grim and sturdy structure known as Mc Donogh Thirty-five High and Normal<sup>1</sup>, has the Roneagle chosen its aerie. There, beset with dangers before which weaker birds must flee, the Roneagle lives and thrives, requiring five years<sup>2</sup> to evolve from the egg to the adult stage. Persons who have braved the blistering heat, the bitter cold, the furious stormblast, one or another of which, amid thunder and lightning, constantly vents its fury about the haunt of the Roneagle, have been astounded to find that the bird feeds only on hard, cold iron. This substantial diet contributes much to the development of the bird's prodigious prowess and resourcefulness.

The first step in the life-cycle of the Roneagle is known as the embryonic stage. Twice a year - in early September and late January<sup>3</sup> - a number of eggs are brought into the world. From what has been said before, it will not seem strange to the reader to learn that these eggs are encased in shells of glittering steel, the reflection from which, as they glisten in the sunlight, is too strong for the naked eye. Each egg, protected by its strong armor from the dangers mentioned above, contains molten iron, which gradually takes the form of a tiny Roneagle.

By the end of a year<sup>4</sup> the young creature has acquired enough strength to break its steel prison, and a young Roneagle finds itself for the first time in the world of living things. The bird is, of course, much dependent; and it becomes the duty of old and weathered Roneagles to bring to its nest daily portions of baby iron-food.

A year passes by, and the Roneaglet reaches the third stage<sup>5</sup> of its life history. The sinews and the jagged iron feathers of its wings are now sufficiently strong for the young creature to make its first attempts at flying. By the end of the season it has become reasonably sure of itself in the air beyond its nest. And what rejoicing fills the sky when old Roneagles make known the fact that the young bird has acquired enough strength and skill to be let fly away unaccompanied by older Roneagles!

During the fourth step<sup>6</sup> in the life-cycle of the marvelous bird, it seems to find peculiar delight in out-distancing other winged creatures in flight. Miles above the clouds, unconscious stretched, the Roneagle wings its way through the thin air with the speed of lightning.

Finally, during the fifth year<sup>7</sup> after the laying of the great steel-shelled egg, the Roneagle emerges into the adult stage. Now the bird, having nourished itself for two years<sup>8</sup> on the most substantial of iron-food; having been hardened by storm and sleet, by summer's feverish heat and winter's deadening cold; and having gained in strength and initiative through participation in numerous contests, becomes a most wonderful creature. Perhaps some intrepid aviator having piloted his plane far, far above the top of the world, has seen an adult Roneagle<sup>9</sup>. It has by this time taken part in many struggles and has conquered countless adversaries. It is probably seen perched on some lofty mountain summit, its mighty talons rending the jagged rock, its great iron wings coldly glittering, and its fierce steel eyes, alive with lightning, intently seeking among the far distant stars new worlds to conquer.

<sup>2</sup> From September 1951 to present time, an eaglet takes three years to evolve from the egg to the adult stage.

<sup>3</sup> Pupils were once admitted at mid-term. The Orleans Parish School Board discontinued mid-term promotion and mid-term graduation in 1921.

A MESSAGE TO THE SENIORS

Today, we are living in the most exciting time in history. We are witnessing breath taking advances in science, in religion, in social justice, and in civil rights. It is a world that your parents read about in the comic books of their youth.

Today, scientists are predicting a life expectancy of 130 years. We read and hear about human hearts being transplanted into other human beings. Persons, now, no longer have to fear death because of defective kidneys. There is a drawing together of the religious leaders who are now fostering the idea of universal togetherness of all religions.

The world of business has devoted its major advertising campaigns to you, the youth of today. You now control the high record industry. The major trends in the fashion and in the clothing industry are geared to youth. Indeed, the world today is one that has placed its future in the hands of its youth.

To you graduates of McDonogh No. 35 Senior High School, the question is asked, "Are you prepared to accept the challenge?"

Your answer, I am sure, is an equivocal "yes."

For many reasons you should have yessed the question.

During your stay here at the McDonogh No. 35 Senior High School, your teachers have been preparing you for this day. They have tried to prepare you for further study at the university level or for productive entry into the business or into the labor community.

As you leave the confines of your high school walls, you will find many obstacles that will challenge your entire being. You will have to call on all your training both at home and in school to help you successfully solve many of the problems you will encounter. This is why we have tried to train you both morally and socially, as well as educationally. We have tried to give you the tools with which you will be able to confront successfully problems that will arise.

And now, with the conferring of your high school diploma, we have placed our confidence in you. We believe the basic tenets taught you here at McDonogh No. 35 High School will serve as a solid foundation.

We believe in you. We know, that despite the vast gap between the younger and the older generation, there is a mutual bond between the two. This bond, we believe, is the desire of both for a better world in which to live.

To you, dear youth, we pass this chalice of faith. The future is yours. Accept it as you would a precious gem. Love it and nurture it, for you are the hopes and the dreams of the future.

WE DEDICATE THE 1968
RONEAGLE TO
DR. MACK J. SPEARS

There is a certainty in this man
Who is unafraid to share himself with others,
Unafraid to become involved in the
Candid life of a student

This certainty he lives
Is the philosophy he teaches

He engages with vitality
His learning and teaching life
We admire the way he approaches its problems,
And he is our example.

To him we dedicate this book
In an attempt to return some of the respect
That he first gave to us.

THE RONEAGLE by Marie Deslonde (1928)

There's a bird of wondrous metal hue,
And of bravery unexcelled, 'tis true.
Where the peril's greatest, there he's found;
Like his iron plumage, gleaming bright,
Shine his courageous deeds of might
And his never-swerving love of right—
Brave Roneagle, circling 'bove the ground!

What dash! hearing weaker eagles call,
Straight to danger hastens he; with all
Ire aroused at sights before his eyes,
Thoughts of peace, of resting, brushed away,
Changed of grimness, fighter's love of fray,
Saves a bird and strikes one down to stay;
Then he pierces onward to the skies.

Ever, ever striving to excel,
Ever nobly doing acts so well,
Far he's placed above the lowly crowds.
Each deed closer brings him to the sky:
And mortals gazing heavenward descry
The famed Roneagle's form no more; for high,
High he soars, oh, far beyond the clouds!

"A GREAT PHILOSOPHY AT WORK"

By DEBORAH MORRIS

It is evident that the McDonogh 35 family is guided by a great philosophy - a philosophy that embraces man as a whole individual striving to mature in favor with God and with mankind - philosophy that embodies the spirit of love necessary for the development of human personality - a philosophy that tends to promote within the hearts and minds of individuals the zeal and fervor to become social beings, stepping over the boundaries of self. These are the truths and principles underlying all knowledge.
