

The Donaldsonville Academy was the first Donaldsonville public school for the education of African American children in the late 1800s. Lowery High School was constructed after World War II. It was merged with Donaldsonville High School in 1970. This is the Lowery High School graduation class around 1945. (Courtesy of Kathie Hambrick.)