A MESSAGE FROM
PRESIDENT R. W. E. JONES

It is my happy and honored privilege to extend to you my sincere greetings and best wishes through the medium of the Grambling High School Yearbook and to register commendation for the excellent spirit of cooperation exemplified by everyone involved throughout the session.

True to the laboratory or proving-ground concept under which our high school facility operates, the 1959 Yearbook should be a source of enduring pride to all its staff members, faculty personnel, and administrators who obviously devoted many long hours to thinking, planning, and effort to its creation.

More important still we find vividly demonstrated here the serious acceptance of a stirring challenge which was met head on and then successfully completed. The sight of youth measuring up to large responsibilities, at a time when there is so much criticism to them, gives me much encouragement and hope about our future.

The meeting of responsibilities with adequate preparation and a keen sense of devotion is more important today than ever before in our history. The competition for success in employment, success in society, and success in civic endeavors is greater than ever, and we who, as either students or teachers, use every opportunity which comes our way to meet challenges effectively are living in the high manner so greatly desired in our changing world.

Therefore, I commend you all very highly for your efforts in this special instance, and above all, for the fine spirit symbolized herein.

President R. W. E. Jones

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Dear Students and Friends:

Through a succession of splendid productions by capable and industrious editorial staffs, the students of Grambling High School have now established an enviable tradition of beautiful, well-planned and well-edited high school annuals which have offered innumerable opportunities for a variety of educational experiences. Therefore, we anxiously anticipate receiving our copy each year.

This illustrious Annual is significantly epochal; it is peculiarly valuable as a recorder in the 1959 history of Grambling High School; it adds creditably to a series of excellently written and planned annuals that have made top-grade productions of THE KITTEN a mantle of tradition in our High School. Therefore, I am delighted, indeed, to commend or to congratulate whole-heartedly the staff of 1958-59 for living true to our fine tradition.

I hope you will carry on with true hope and right purpose in the days ahead.

Sincerely yours,

James DuMaine
