THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY

Texas Rosenwald
High School

WE, the members of the senior class and yearbook staff, have put forth many hours of hard and tedious work in an effort to prepare for your pleasure the Tensasan Annual.

We sincerely hope that you will find in it some of the cherished moments we have taken a part in and enjoyed.

My sincere gratitude to the staff for their co-operation and their indulgence in the work from which they never deviated.

Myles W. Daniels
Editor-in-Chief

Dedication

The 1963 Tensasan proudly dedicates this annual to our former county agent, Mr. L. S. Whitlow.

He will always be remembered with honest sincerity and because he is remembered we lovingly dedicate the 1963 Tensasan to a man whose life was dedicated to kindness, earnestness and faithfulness---Mr. L. S. Whitlow.

ADMINISTRATION

Dear Seniors:

The close of the school year of 1963 leaves you to make a decision to determine your future course. Deliberate as often as you please, but when you decide remember it may be final. I hope you will do your best thinking in that direction, whether you decide to go to college or pursue other fields of endeavor.

The young high school graduate is discovering that among the necessities of life, the most important is living. Remember your success is not measured by what you do as much as by what you should have done with your abilities.

I am sure you have been given the guidance through the school years during the time you have spent at Tensas Rosenwald High. I hope it has been profitable and will serve as an inspiration for you to continue to work for the ideas that we have placed at your disposal.

May I congratulate you for the contributions that you have made toward the success of the 1963 Tensas and wish for your continued success as you leave Tensas Rosenwald High School.

Very truly yours,

John G. Jackson

Supervisor of Negro Schools

To the Staff of the Tensas--Senior Class

You are living in a privileged period of life. It is the period of mental and spiritual growth and expansion. You must have a vital interest in life to be truly happy. Not absorption but service only will give satisfaction to the aims of your life. You need the proper stimulus to which your whole inner life can respond, and this is: where can you find a project large enough, broad enough, worthy enough to which you can relate your whole life and into which you can submerge yourself completely? How can you make your life purposeful? How can you make your life count?

Everything depends upon your sense of values. What appeals most, Money or Manhood; Ease or Labor; Comfort or Character; The Filippant or the Heroic; Self or Service?

You should acquire the rare abilities to make yourselves useful to manhood; to respect hard work and plain old-fashioned honesty; to be bigger and stronger than the things that tend to hold you down; to look upon life itself as a bigger and broader school where your main vocation is endless lessons under the guidance of an infinite teacher.

Every member of the faculty extends to each of you sincere congratulations on having reached this most important milestone on life's journey and best wishes for continued success in whatever you undertake.

Sincerely yours,

J. B. Bilbert, Jr.
